WHEN TERMINATION IS FINAL: THE CLIENT'S EXPERIENCE OF THE DEATH OF HER THERAPIST (THERAPY TERMINATION, BEREAVEMENT)

Author: KAUFMAN, RANDI LYNN

Degree: PSY.D.

Year: 1998

Corporate Source/Institution: MASSACHUSETTS SCHOOL OF PROFESSIONAL
PSYCHOLOGY (1005)

Chairperson: HARRIET BERMAN

Source: VOLUME 59/04-B OF DISSERTATION ABSTRACTS INTERNATIONAL.

Descriptors: PSYCHOLOGY, CLINICAL ; SOCIAL WORK

Descriptor Codes: 0622; 0452

This exploratory research study examines the client's experience of having her therapist die while the two are engaged in long-term, psychoanalytically-oriented psychotherapy. Although the literature on bereavement is monumental, the literature specifically related to the death of one's therapist is a very small, and very recent, addition. The lack of literature seems to suggest that the death of one's therapist is not a common occurrence. However, the small body of literature that is beginning to emerge suggests that this phenomenon is not a rare phenomenon. Rather, the lack of literature seems to be reflective of the denial of death in general. The historical tendency of classical psychoanalysts to affect a stance of omnipotence may also contribute to this silence.

In this study three domains of literature are reviewed: (1) the therapeutic relationship; (2) the bereavement literature; and (3) the literature on the death of a therapist. In seeking to understand the experience of the death of one's therapist, the relationship between the client and therapist is used as a context in which to understand such a loss. Ten clients, who were in long-term psychodynamic therapy when their therapist died, were interviewed in a semi-structured format. A thematic analysis of the data found that losing one's therapist is a unique loss from other types of significant loss. The real aspects of the relationship became increasingly important, in relation to the transference, once the therapist became ill. Attending some type of mourning ritual was critically important in dealing with this loss, particularly because the therapeutic relationship is one that remains sequestered from other parts of one's life. The experience of having one's therapist die was also found to have a large impact on subsequent therapy relationships.

In the final section, implications for psychotherapists are discussed regarding how this knowledge may inform our work in regard to our own mortality, as well as in working with clients who have had a previous therapist die. Guidelines for the application of this knowledge to clinical practice, and implications of this study for future research, are also discussed.

ABSTRACT: AG-1749 for injection was administered intravenously to Jcl:

Wistar rats at dosage levels of 0, 3, 10 and 30mg/kg/day beginning 9 weeks before mating and continuing until the day before necropsy (males) and beginning 2 weeks before mating and continuing to day 7 of gestation (females), and the effects of the treatment on fertility of the animals and on the development of fetuses were assessed. Treatment
-related death of parent animals was not seen in any group. Body weight gain was suppressed in males, and food consumption tended to be decreased in females in the mg/kg group. There were no adverse effects on general signs, estrous cycle, copulatory or fertility indices, necropsy findings or organ weights in any group. In the fetal observations, no treatment-related abnormalities were seen in mortality, body weight, sex ratio, placenta or external, visceral or skeletal features in any group. Based on these results, it is concluded that the no-observed-adverse-effect dosage level of AG-1749 is 10mg/kg/day for parent animals and that AG-1749 at doses up to 30mg/kg/day has no adverse effect on the fertility of parent animals or on the development of fetuses under the conditions used in this study.

ABSTRACT: Mr. Gelsinger was the last of 18 people in a University of Pennsylvania study to undergo an experimental genetic treatment, called gene therapy. The 17 people before him came out relatively unscathed. Mr. Gelsinger died, the first fatality linked to gene therapy. At issue is a particular type of virus, adenovirus, which is often used as a vehicle to insert new genes into the body, in an attempt to repair a genetic defect or to treat diseases such as cancer. In Mr. Gelsinger's case, a high dose of adenovirus conveying new genes was delivered directly into a main blood vessel in his liver on Sept. 13. Four days later, he died, apparently as a result of a reaction to the treatment. James Wilson, the research scientist who heads the University of Pennsylvania's Institute for Human Gene Therapy, says his team has developed some specific explanations for Jesse [Gelsinger]'s death, but has not yet been able to reproduce what happened by experimenting with animals. Until the precise details of Mr. Gelsinger's death are nailed down, however, "we should be extremely cautious" about conducting any gene-therapy trial in which adenovirus is injected into the bloodstream, Dr. Wilson says. An adenovirus is a form of respiratory virus.

Abstract: The authors assessed the relationship between cause of death and treatment modality in patients with peripheral arterial occlusive disease. A total of 273 patients were treated with percutaneous transluminal angioplasty, surgical reconstruction, amputation, or medical therapy. We evaluated the outcome in various patient subgroups divided by treatments with a mean follow-up of 4.9 years. Most patients died because of cardiovascular or cerebrovascular events, and cancer was the second most frequent cause of death. Furthermore, there was a significant difference in cancer deaths between patients who received prosthetic vascular grafts and those with other types of treatment (9.3% vs. 2.8%, $p < 0.01$, odds ratio = 3.34). It is noteworthy that patients with peripheral arterial occlusive disease succumbed to cancer, especially the patients with prosthetic vascular grafts.

Abstract: Fifth-instar codling moth, Cydia pomonella (L.), larvae were exposed to 10 simulated heat treatments of apples and pears and CO₂ levels were monitored as a measure of respiration. Marked increases in respiration rates (μ l CO₂/mg/min) were noted during these treatments. Respiration peaked between 3.5 and 4.8 μ l CO₂/mg/min; the amount of time to peak respiration depended on the heating rate and was correlated to the LT95. No differences were observed between male and female larvae in the timing of the peaks of CO₂ production. In treatments where mortality occurred, CO₂ levels dropped to zero, but only after a considerable time after death. Respiratory recovery rates, the time it took for CO₂ levels to return to normal, were recorded after treatments at time points where CO₂ production reached 3/4 and maximum peak. Respiration rates at constant temperatures were recorded within the range of 10-30 degrees C. $Q(10)$ over this range was 1.49, whereas $Q(10)$ was the greatest, 2.54, between 10 and 15 degrees C.

Abstract: Methylethyl ketoxime (CAS No. 96-29-7; MEKO; 2-butanone oxime), an antioxidant agent used in paints, resins, and adhesives, was tested for reproductive toxicity in a two-generation study with CD (Sprague-Dawley) rats. Thirty-eight-week-old rats/sex/group (F0) were administered MEKO in water, by gavage, at 0, 10, 100, or 200 mg/kg/day (at a dosing volume of 2 ml/kg), 5 days/week for 10 weeks with vaginal cytology evaluation (VCE) of F0 females during the last 3 weeks of the prebreed period. Animals were mated within groups for 3 weeks with dosing during mating, gestation, and lactation for 7 days/week. F0 parents and F1 weanlings, 10/sex/dose, were necropsied (after a 2-week postwean VCE in F0 females) with hematologic evaluation (including methemoglobin) and histology of adult livers, spleens, and reproductive organs. F1 weanlings, 30/sex/dose, were dosed for 11 weeks and mated as described above. Because of poor reproductive performance, not treatment related, F1 animals with no F2a litters were rebred to produce F2b litters. F1 parents and F2a weanlings, 10/sex/dose, were necropsied and evaluated as described above. Inguinal mammary glands were examined histologically from all nonselected F1 and F2 (a and b) female weanlings. Adult toxicity was observed in both generations and both sexes at all doses. Treatment-related parental deaths occurred at 200 mg/kg/day. At 100 and 200 mg/kg/day, parents exhibited dose-related reduced body weights and weight gains, reduced feed consumption, clinical signs of toxicity, and anemia with concomitant extramedullary hematopoiesis and hemosiderosis in livers and spleens (and increased spleen weights). At 10 mg/kg/day, only adult liver and spleen histologic effects were present. There was no evidence of reproductive organ or mammary gland pathology or of reproductive or postnatal toxicity at any dose tested. There was no adult "no observable adverse effect level" (NOAEL) established; the NOAEL for reproductive and postnatal toxicity was at least 200 mg/kg/day for rats in this study. Abstract: Background. The relationship between antipsychotic drug treatment and sudden unexplained death remains unclear. The estimation of post-mortem blood drug concentrations should be helpful.

Method. Eight medico-legal cases were reviewed with respect to behaviour of patient, type and dosage of drug treatment, mode of death, post-mortem findings and drug concentrations.

Results. The problems of evaluating such drug levels are discussed.
 Five of the eight patients had probably toxic concentrations of antipsychotic and/or antidepressants, which caused death, usually involving cardiac arrhythmias.

Conclusions. In cases of sudden unexpected death, a sample of blood from a peripheral vein should be obtained immediately death is pronounced or the body discovered, and sent for analysis. To minimise such fatalities, the patient should be monitored carefully, with ECG if feasible, and electrolyte balance checked. The drug regimen used should be kept simple and large doses of antipsychotics and/or antidepressants avoided wherever possible.

Abstract: There have been striking advances in the management of complications of cirrhosis in the 50 years since biliary cirrhosis was recognised as a feature occurring in a minority of patients with cystic fibrosis.¹ Many questions remain unanswered with regard to its pathogenesis, its effect on other systems, morbidity and mortality and to its optimum management. Factors which may initiate liver disease and/or cause progressive biliary fibrosis leading to biliary cirrhosis in some cystic fibrosis patients are being defined but much is still poorly understood and further research is required. Clinical and pathological studies confirm that cirrhosis is frequently asymptomatic and only slowly progressive, with the prevalence rising with age. In a recent large epidemiological study,² however, it was found that the age related prevalence fell in patients over the age of 20 years although deaths from liver disease were rare. Does the presence of liver disease cause premature respiratory death in teenagers? Current treatments control variceal bleeding, the important sequel for most patients with biliary cirrhosis, with less morbidity and mortality than in the past

LEADING PSYCHOLOGIST USES CONTROVERSIAL "COFFIN TREATMENT" FOR WAYWARD TEENS

WHITTIER, CA -- Renowned psychologist Dr. Arnold Nerenberg has developed a controversial therapy called "death visualization" to treat violent, anti-social and uncontrollable teens. The treatment, which involves the visualization -- or actual placing -- of a parent or loved one in a real coffin, has proven effective in deterring negative behavior and restoring productive parent-child relationships.

"Death visualization," says Nerenberg, "is intended to bring teens to an emotional level so they can consciously appreciate and cherish what they have, before it's too late. By visualizing a parent, loved one, or even themselves in an actual coffin, they instinctively release emotions that provide the foundation for continued recovery and behavior modification."

Despite criticism of the 'coffin treatment' as a draconian and unnecessary response to teens who might respond positively to other therapies, Nerenberg contends it is an effective treatment that can almost instantly change the outlook of a troubled teen.

"How many times do we hear," adds Nerenberg, "of children and adults who only come to appreciate mentors in their lives after that person is gone? If teenagers can truly come to appreciate important figures in their lives while these people are still alive, many behavior problems will stop."

Considered the world's leading authority on aggressive driving and road rage, Dr. Nerenberg has appeared on many national television programs including Montel, Leeza, and Politically Incorrect. He is the author of the new book, Raising Adults to be Parents.

D-i-y funerals as therapy

Christianne Heal

Christianne Heal is running a Natural Death Salon on this theme on Sunday Nov 27th '94, 4pm to 7pm - send SAE for details to The Natural Death Centre, 20 Heber Rd, London NW2 6AA (tel 020 8028 2853; fax 020 8452 6434).

Recently a man told me how great a privilege he felt it was to have carried out his daughter's wishes for her own funeral. She had left clear instructions and fulfilling her directions gave him an aim at this traumatic time and a great sense of satisfaction in giving her his final gift for the 'celebration of her life' as she had requested. I too felt good about arranging my mother's funeral and shared the sense of giving her a gift. Another therapeutic aspect of taking charge is receiving the warm appreciative comments afterwards.

We can all remember the ceremonies we have found comforting long after the event, and we all recall those funerals we felt were soulless long after the event, so it is important that everyone attending feels that thought and effort have been given.

It's a relief if instructions given by the dead person have been left with the will, but if no particular wishes are to be met then the choice is yours to create an imaginative and memorable event. For me I prefer lots of participation from family and friends, even a simple contribution such as 'how I first met the deceased' is of interest. Other excellent suggestions can be got from 'A Practical Guide to Non-religious Funerals' by Jane Wynne Willson. If you have ideas but are anxious about conducting the ceremony, ask a priest to do what you want, or a member of the Society of Friends or British Humanist Association to lead it for you.

One lady I met sent a tape to each of her children with her instructions for her own funeral and another man had prepared an address to be played at his funeral for the audience.

All is possible, and to have created a memorable event will offer comfort to the bereaved and to yourself in a way you cannot imagine nor fully evaluate.

These are some notes setting out my own wishes for 'the celebration of my life'.

- Brother to be master of ceremonies. Masses of candles and flowers and each person in their celebratory clothes. He will teach and lead everyone through the greetings dance in a circle. I shall be in a cardboard coffin surrounded by candles in the centre of the circle.
- In turn each person speaks to me, saying: i) how we first met ii) what they valued in the friendship iii) any hurt or grievance they still hold. The purpose of this is to acknowledge it and then release it.

- Group scribble to sign their name in felt tip pens on the cardboard coffin.
- Musical interlude as yet still to be planned!
- Everyone says something affirming their own life now followed by feasting.
- Everyone is given a helium-filled balloon which they carry with them to nearby burial place and after my coffin is lowered, the balloons are released to symbolise my newly freed soul.
- Each person leaves with flowers to take home and a book or article I owned. Any letters I've written saying farewell will be distributed.

A d-i-y funeral

I found planning my mother's funeral an education, a bonding experience with my four siblings, and a therapeutic exercise for myself. Organising the event ourselves seemed the easiest way of getting what we wanted. I wanted this to be memorable and supportive. Our funeral took place inside the funeral parlour, as the local church was not available. This proved an excellent informal venue: the room was a peculiar shape with five oddly angled walls. We placed the coffin in the centre of the room and we sat around the sides facing the centre so we could see each other and then outlined the programme we would follow. I had invited a priest to say a Latin mass for us on his portable altar to start the ceremony. He then took a back seat for he was not the master of ceremonies. My younger brother then asked his four siblings to stand linking hands as he told us about one of his good early memories. Another brother performed on the flute and then followed stories and memories from many other participants.

Prior to the day I had asked people to write down or come prepared to speak of a memory they had of my mother and those not wanting to speak would have their piece read aloud by another. This really taught me how good it is to hear these anecdotes from any period of my mother's life. I had provided helium-filled balloons for the children and grandchildren and these I now distributed. We walked to the graveside carrying the festive looking balloons and there I suggested we release the balloons, thinking of them as symbols for her departing soul and as an opportunity to release any painful emotional attachments we still had to our mother. This was one of the most useful rituals for me as we released the balloons into the air and watched until the last speck had disappeared from view. There followed a special tea in a cosy cafe with log fires, given over to our funeral party.

I did enjoy it, and so did my family. I was particularly touched by a compliment given me by a sister, who asked me if I would organise her own funeral when the time came!

A sad Bob Schimmel calls in to talk about the fallout from his last appearance

A very solemn sounding Bob Schimmel called in from Los Angeles to talk about the fallout from his last appearance. Last week, Bob came on with his daughter. Both he and his daughter talked about the dysfunction that goes on in his marriage. He admitted to calling his daughter's friend at 1AM while recovering from gall bladder surgery. Well, his wife wasn't too thrilled by what was said on the show. She told him that she would allow him back in the house only to retrieve his things. Bob called in to try to "clear" things up. He didn't do a good job though. He explained his behavior by saying that the friend was 25 years old, and not a minor. He denied ever having an affair with the girl. Howard didn't help things out much. He referred to the girl as Bob's girlfriend. Bob said, "she's not my girlfriend." Howard asked Bob to give the show a call when he goes to retrieve his things in Arizona next week.

Chris Rock and Kevin Smith come in to promote Dogma

Chris Rock and Kevin Smith came in to promote their new film Dogma. Howard, right off the bat, asked Chris if he lightened his skin. Howard came to this suspicion a couple of weeks ago when he saw a much darker Rock in some old footage he saw. Chris denied the charge, and said that the gericurl he had in the past made him appear darker. When Chris brought up Howard's separation, Howard reminded him about his own separation a year ago. Both Chris and Howard bonded a little over the difficulty of marriage. Howard asked Chris about the tabloid reports that say he got a white woman pregnant. Chris denied it, and said that she wasn't white, she was Hispanic. Erika Eleniak comes in to promote "Aftershock" and promote the Mike Walker game

Hot actress and former Playboy Playmate Erika Eleniak came in to promote "Aftershock" on CBS. A couple of weeks ago, Scott Einziger complained to Howard that there wasn't enough women on the show, so Howard invited Erika in. Howard was enthralled by Erika. She's one of the few women that has been able to turn her Playmate status into a successful acting career. Erika, who's now married, talked about her wild days growing up. She lost her virginity at 15 to a 23 year old, and once dated a quadrapalegic who ended up cheating on her. She drank a lot growing up, smoked lots of pot, did crank, and dabbled with lesbianism. Sounds like she's a fun girl.

Tim Burton comes in

Director extraordinaire Tim Burton came in to promote, "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow". This is the first time that Howard has interviewed Tim. They both met in Cannes when Howard was in France to promote "Private Parts". The question that Howard wanted to ask Tim the most was why he couldn't get "Superman" made with Nicolas Cage. Tim had spent a year on the project before leaving it. Tim said that studios today are more interested in how they market the T-Shirt or McDonald's cup than the actual script. He said that this can interfere more than anything when working on a movie. Tim also talked about his life growing up. He jokingly said that he tried to leave the house when he was an infant. He never did get along with his parents, and said that he can work out most of his issues with his movies. Ralph came in to really "lather" Tim up. Ralph praised Tim, and said that he and Tim thought the same way about movies. Please check out Tim Burton's: The Melancholy Death of Oyster Boy & Other Stories, Beetlejuice on DVD, and Edward Scissorhands

Robin comes in wearing dark sunglasses

Robin came in wearing dark sunglasses this morning. She said that she had cut her eye when she hit it with the phone last night, and that she had to wear the sunglasses because she had no makeup on. One caller suggested that Robin might have been punched by Mr. X, and that she was covering up the shiner with her glasses. Scott DePace came in to ask Howard if she could remove the glasses. Howard wondered why Scott asked him and not Robin. It was obvious that Scott was intimidated by Robin. Jackie had fun doing Robin's voice during this whole sequence.

Girl who "wants to meet Benjy" comes in

The girl who wanted to meet Benjy was scheduled to come in today. What Benjy didn't know though, was that the girl called in earlier to postpone appearance because she was serving a DUI sentence. Instead, Howard had this really hot girl that Gary met at his charity to come in, and to pretend that she was the one that wanted to meet Benjy. Benjy couldn't believe his good luck. He kept on complementing her and telling her how pretty she was. Howard then broke the news to Benjy. The girl came in to meet Howard, not Benjy. The members of the show were fascinated by her. They begged and begged to get articles of clothing off of her. Baba Booeey kept on offering her prizes if she showed her boobs and thongs. After all the begging, all they got was to see her in a bathing top, with a quick flash of her breasts. Robin thought that they were all pathetic.

Dick Clark calls in to promote Greed

Dick Clark called in yet again to promote another project of his. This time was to promote the wildly popular "Greed" game show on Fox. Howard first wanted to know why Clark continues to work so hard when he's so rich. Clark responded that Howard suffered from the hard work ethic. Howard then asked Clark if it was true that he owned all the underwater cable rights. Clark denied owning that, but admitted to owning the cable rights in Mexico and Jamaica. Howard wondered what that would get Clark, "Who has cable in Mexico?" Clark said that he owned the rights to the telecommunication systems in Mexico. All wire transactions in Mexico and Jamaica go through Clark's cable.

Intersex doctor that claims that women have rape fantasies calls in Intersex doctor called in to talk about rape fantasies that most women have. Howard was more interested in knowing the story about the doctor himself. The doctor called in several months ago to get women from being addicted to their vibrators. Back then, Howard questioned the doctor about his genitals, he did the same today. The doctor was born with both sets of genitals. He sewed his vagina up, and lives life as a gay man. Howard asked him if he had any nuts, the doctor said that they had shriveled up, but was given prosthetic ones. During his phone call, an x-ray technician said that she spent last night helping a man who had a shower head lodged in his buttocks. On the subject of female rape fantasies, the doctor said that most women have them. Robin even admitted to having them. However, the doctor emphasized that women don't want to be raped.

Howard talks about the Scores party

Yesterday, Howard and the gang went to Scores for a much needed party. Howard said that the party did wonders for his current emotional state. He even said that several of the dancers gave him their numbers, now that he's a single man. Howard said that he probably hold back on calling them right now though. In an odd moment there, Howard said that a drunken Ralph put his hand on his leg while watching a table dance. Howard said that he felt a hot sensation from his leg and noticed that Ralph's clove cigarette was nearly burning him. Howard was so giddy this morning that he even invited Tom to the next Scores party, as long as Gary could control the funny money that goes to him. This way Tom could now know how it feels like to get very little money. Tom said that he would go. Don't live in NYC and can't go to Scores? Two guys who claim to be Jesus come in

The guy who once tried to kill Ronald Reagan, and the guy who claimed to be the Omega Christ came in to prove that they were the real Jesus. Jesus #1 was really peeved by #2. He became annoyed when he saw Omega Christ wearing what he said was a pentagram. #1 spent a couple of years in prison for trying to kill the ex president. He said that he liked prison because he could give lots of oral to guys. The other Jesus was rather calm through the whole ordeal. #1 became so enraged that he had to leave the studio to take his medication. When #1 came back he almost vomited because of #2. #1 said that he wanted to save the world by helping man to convert feces to methane gas. #2 wanted to save the world by telling man that he's stealing precious natural resources from the meek. Neither did a good job in convincing the crew that they were the messiah.

Bret Hart comes in

Wrestler Bret Hart came in. Bret is the brother of Owen Hart, who died in that WWF Pay-Per-View match in Kansas City. Bret, said that he was supportive of the family for suing the WWF. Brett has also had his own personal problems with the league. He said that Vince McMahon was a back stabber, and wouldn't be surprised if he had a gay relationship with wrestler Shawn Michaels. He also talked about the time he punched out McMahon. McMahon had changed the outcome of one of his fights to make him lose, even though he was told he would win. Bret was so disgusted by McMahon's stab in the back that he punched him out. The aftermath of the altercation can be seen on Brett's new video available on his website BretHart.net. Pick up yourself a copy of Bret Hart : The Story of the Wrestler They Call 'the Hitman' or the video Hitman Hart: Wrestling with Shadows

Alan Thicke calls in

Howard bonded a little with the recently separated Alan Thicke. Now that both are separated, each were sympathetic to the other's predicament. Thick claimed that all the wild sex stories written in the tabloids about him were false. He admitted to wild sex while he was single, but claimed to be 100% to his wife, the ex-Miss World while they were married. In explaining his breakup, Thicke said that she had changed when she turned 30 and no longer wanted to be married. He said that at this stage in his life, he wasn't thrilled about being single again. When Alan was still married he wrote How Men Have Babies : The Pregnant Father's Survival Guide

Gary Garver interviews played

Gary Garver, west coast's version of Stuttering John, was out on the interview circuit again. This time he attended the Nicole Glasier pediatric AIDS charity. He interviewed Tea Leoni and Andy Garcia. Tia was rather cool through the interview. Gary asked several of the generics, i.e. have you ever had a gay sex fantasy? Howard said that he found the interview very compelling, even though Tea didn't say anything. When the questions became too risqué her publicist jumped in to stop it. Andy Garcia was the next in line. Andy is in the Guinness Book of World Records for being the world's most successful conjoined twin. He was deeply offended by Gary's questions. Gary was able to ask him if he's ever gotten aroused during a love scene, and if he ever smoked marijuana. Andy was angered by the questions and walked away in a huff.

Wally George calls in Old conservative Wally George called in to promote his new book, "The Father of Combat TV". Wally has been the host of "Hot Seat" for over 15 years on KDOC 56 in Anaheim, CA. In the past Howard and Wally have had deeply heated arguments over the air. Wally would generally scream that Howard's show shouldn't be allowed to exist, while Howard would goof on Wally's bad hair piece and 4 marriage. Well, Howard was quite gentle on the 67 year old codger this time. Howard said that he sounded too old and pathetic, and felt rather sad for him. Howard did take issue for the subtle bashing Wally did against his daughter Rebecca Demourney in the book. Wally said that Rebecca's abandonment of her family was probably because she was jealous of the love her half 10 year old sister gets from Wally. Fred breaks a Xerox machine with his ass

Last Friday each member of the show made a Xerox copy of their ass in preparation for the arrival of Jackie Stallone later this week. Jackie claims that she can predict one's future by looking at their ass. When Fred got onto the copy machine, he broke open the glass with his ass. The breakage was so severe that Fred bled from his butt cheeks. Howard took a look at the copies the guys made and remarked about how hairy Jackie and Fred's asses were.

Gary Coleman comes in

When Howard began the show this morning, he talked about how today's scheduled guest Gary Coleman hated the show. Benjy gave Gary a pre-interview, and reported that Gary was only going to do the show to get in his plugs. Well, the whole thing turned out to be a big misunderstanding. Gary, who claims to have never listened, had been told about all the "horrible" things that Howard has said about him on the air. Howard explained to Gary that he has been nothing but supportive of him, and was sympathetic to the hell that he's been put through. Gary seemed to be relieved to learn this. He claimed that he was no longer bitter over the money his parents stole from him. His life did sound rather sad though. At 31, he claims to still be a virgin. He's said that he's gone no further than playing around with a woman's breasts. He said that he has lived a reclusive life and has only 4 good friends. He continues to get dialysis 3 times a week, and takes on any work when he can get it. Gary came on to promote UGO.com, a site that is holding a web-a-thon for him. Before he left, Gary explained that Dana Plato's ominous last appearance on the show was one of the reasons why he had bad vibes about the show. Howard explained to Gary that Dana was happy to be on the show, and even thanked them after she had left. Her death was a sad coincidence. This put Gary at ease, and he left the show happy.

Bob Schimmel and daughter come in Comedian Bob Schimmel and his daughter came in to talk about his outrageous appearance on the Hollywood Squares. Little did Bob know that most of the time would spent talking about his dysfunctional relationship with his wife. Bob has broken up with his several times in the span of his marriage. His daughter piped in several times to talk about all the horrible things that her mother has said about him. Howard and the gang couldn't believe the honesty that was coming out of the daughter Jessica's mouth. Bob grieved several times over the air saying, "I'm going to be in big trouble for this one." Jessica talked about the time her mom found a woman taking a shower at Bob's apartment, found panties in his car, and how Bob called one of her sexy friends while he was lying sick in the hospital. She also talked about how she never knew that her parents where separated even though Bob was out of the house several months at a time. Howard said that his life looked like a picnic in comparison to Bob. He asked Bob if he was looking for divorce #4 from his wife.

Howard considers auctioning off Kathie Lee's note

Howard tinkered around with the idea of auctioning off Kathie Lee's note to charity. He said that he would give the money to the "Make A Wish Foundation". Howard said that he could probably get a ton of money for the note. Robin urged Howard not to do this. She said that he should frame it and put it in his office. "How cool will it be to see that thing everyday in your office?" Robin said. Howard agreed and took it off the auctioning block.

Nutty girl who claims to know Brad Pitt, Chris Rock, Ben Affleck, and Tom Cruise comes in

A nutty girl right off the street named Sunshine came in to talk about her relationships with Brad Pitt and Ben Affleck. She said that Tom Cruise "discovered" her and that Chris Rock has been saying that she never changes her underwear. Baba Booley was relieved that finally one of the nuts off the street came in at a decent hour. Howard had fun asking her relationships with these celebrities. Howard liked her so much that he allowed her to "panel" and play the Mike Walker game with comedian Paul Rodriguez.

Paul Rodriguez comes in to play the Mike Walker game

Comedian Paul Rodriguez came in to play the Mike Walker. He was "fortunate" enough to meet nutball Sunshine who came in 15 minutes earlier. Paul teased her and said that she could be his opening act. Howard had her do a little of her "stand up" routine for Paul. Nothing but crickets could be heard. When Sunshine finally left, Paul talked about his the bad experiences he had with Ricky Martin on a show they did together, and being shunned by Johnny Carson after he appeared on Joan Rivers' show.

Don King comes in

The always talkative Don King came in to promote the Holyfield/Lewis fight coming up. Howard of course wanted to talk to King about all the legal troubles that he has been having. Last June, the FBI raided his office. King wouldn't elaborate much. He said that the justice system would find him innocent of all wrongdoing, and that's why we live in the greatest country in the world. In his last visit, King promised to give Howard a big scoop if Howard sold out the last fight. Well, the last fight did sell out, and King held true to his promise. He said that he's looking to acquire the radio stations that Clear Channel Communications have to sell off in their merger with AM/FM. If Don is able to do this, he may one day own a station that Howard is on in the future.

Captain Janks Seattle Murder Phony Phone played

Captain Janks struck again yesterday when he called a local Seattle television station covering the shipyard murders. Janks called in as a witness, and said that the gunman appeared to look like Howard Stern. He said that he was distraught from his separation from his wife. The local anchorman didn't catch on, but CNN did. When Janks mentioned Stern, they immediately went back to the CNN center in Atlanta. Janks called in later to report that the anchorman had kept him on for at least another minute.

Daniel Carver Movie review played

America's favorite Ku Klux Klan leader Daniel Carver came on again to do his movie review. Today he reviewed Coming to America, Amistad, and Losing Isaiah.

- Coming to America - got 3 Hanging Nooses. Daniel Carver likes Eddie Murphy.
- Amistad - 0 hanging nooses.
- Losing Isaiah - 0 hanging nooses.

Mark Harris comes in

Mrs. Martha Raye, Mark Harris, came in today to promote his latest projects. He's in town to meet with a publisher about a book he's written. The book is called "From Outer Space to Cyber Space". The book sounded horrible. He even printed e-mails from people that wanted nothing more than an autographed picture from him. Howard also talked about how Mark calls his producer Vinnie Favalli every day about various TV ideas he has. Mark shot one pilot in which he interviews deceased celebrities by sitting on top of their gravesites. Delusional Mark suggested that Vinnie make this a regular bit on the David Letterman Show. Mark also claims to have a scheduled meeting with Roman Polanski in France. He said that he was going to meet Polanski to promote a movie idea he has. Howard insisted that Mark videotape the meeting.

Wednesday 11/3/99

Howard talks about the note that he received from Kathie Lee

Howard talked about the surprising sympathy note he received recently. He told Robin that she would never guess who it came from. Her first response was President Clinton. Howard said that it was even better than that. She then guessed Kathy Lee. She guessed correctly. Howard said that the note was delivered to him from Regis Philbin with "Personal" written on the envelope. He said that he was going to read the note tomorrow, because the note wasn't really sincere, and it had more to do with her than his separation.

Howard talks about almost meeting Mariah Carrey

Yesterday, Howard took his daughters to MTV's Total Request Live. His initial intent was to just take his daughters to the TV Show. While there, the show's producers convinced Howard that he should meet that day's guest Mariah Carrey backstage. Howard wasn't really into it, but thought it might be cool for his daughter's sake. Well, Mariah never stopped by to meet Howard, and the whole thing was a waste of time.

AVN's Paul Fishbein calls

A couple of months ago Paul Fishbein called in to let Howard know that he had been just given an AVN lifetime achievement. Paul asked Howard to appear at the 2000 AVN awards so that he could receive his honor. Howard declined saying that he didn't want to go to a porno awards show. Paul called back to ask Howard again to attend the ceremony. Howard admitted that the idea sounded fun, but declined again because he didn't want to get his award right after some woman wins for "best anal". Howard said that he would consider sending someone from the wack pack like Hank the Angry Drunk or Gary the Retard.

Therapist that uses coffins to treat troublesome children calls in Howard was intrigued to let Dr. Nerenberg on the air when Gary told him that he put children into coffins to scare them straight. Well, that is not exactly what he does. Dr. Neuremberg will sometimes use coffins in his therapy to make it clear to children that their parents won't always be around to provide for them. He would have children pretend that their parents were in the coffin, and have them tell the parent what they wanted to tell them while they were alive.

Howard talks about the sympathetic phone call he received from Tom Howard talked about the phone call that he received from Tom while sick. He said that the phone call was awkward because it put him into a position in which he had to "like" Tom. Howard then talked about how both he and Tom had gone through very tough years. Tom has recently recovered from cancer. Gary and John then talked about what a tough negotiator he continued to be while even sick. When Tom was in the middle of being treated for cancer, he told John that he would rather die than give him any more money.

Howard goofs on Danny Glover for wanting cabbies to take sensitivity training

During the news, Robin talked about the trouble Danny Glover had getting a cab the other day. She reported that Glover now wanted NY cabbies to take sensitivity courses and to not discriminate on who they pick up. Howard found Glover's reasoning absurd, saying that the cabbies were only discriminating because of their fear of being killed by a black passenger. "Please don't kill me black man," Fred said in his Indian accent. Howard chimed in with his own Indian cabbie impression, "You should wear a black hat, so that I know you're not dangerous. I've read the newspapers, I don't want to die." Several NY cabbies then called in to explain why they didn't pick up black passengers.

Tuesday 11/2/99Howard claims that his relationship with Alison is now "better than ever"

Howard started off the show by raving how good his relationship with Alison now is. He said that all of the negatives about their relationship are no longer there now that they don't live with each other. He said that he's a much better boyfriend than a husband. Although he wouldn't go so far to say that there has been a reconciliation, Howard did sound better than he sounded last week. As for critics who say that the show will suffer now that he is no longer married, Howard said that his marital had nothing to do with how well the show would do. Howard said that as long as he could talk, the show would continue to prosper.

Howard rips in to Mancow

While Howard was out sick, Mancow was asked his opinion about Howard's separation on the Fox News Channel. Mancow repeated some of the things that Howard has said about his dead father, and said that the separation couldn't have happened to "nicer" guy. Howard then ripped into Mancow. He said that Mancow and his dead daddy were still his bitches. He said that Mancow's father died in disgrace because he knew that Mancow was nothing more than a bad Howard Stern imitator, and that he would still F their skulls when he comes out to Chicago.

Luke Perry comes in Luke Perry dropped in today. He's in town to visit sick people in a local hospital. Howard first talked to Luke about his hot costar Vanessa on 90210. Luke admitted that he gets aroused while doing love scenes with her. He did say that he remains committed to his wife of 7 years. He even ribbed Howard for his comment that guys should stay with their wives. Howard also talked a little to Luke about his crappy biological father he beat his mother when he was really young. Stephen Baldwin called in to bond a little with the gang as well.

Howard's mother calls in

For the last couple of weeks, Howard has talked about how his mom makes up rules for everything. "Howard, you need more rest," she would say. "It's too hot to walk... It's too cold to walk... You shouldn't walk when it's windy" she would say over and over again. Apparently mother Rae got fed up with all the goofing, and gave Howard a call. "Howard you must be responsible for yourself, and stop blaming others for your problems," she said. She did admit to saying all of the things that Howard has claimed. Howard at the end gave her a break because of all the emotion she has gone through in the last couple of weeks. He said that she cried a lot. She retorted, "You did too." It was very touching to hear mother Rae back on again after her long absence from the show.

Monday 11/1/99

Howard talks about his week of sickness

Howard returned today after spending much of last week sick in bed. He said that the cold must have been spurred on by all the stress that he has been going through lately. Robin and Jackie mistakenly came in last Wednesday, the first day he was off. Robin came in because she didn't check her messages, and Jackie didn't get the message because his answering machine isn't in the same house that he sleeps.

Polio Mike interviews old NY radio stars

Howard played tape of Polio Mike interview old NY radio legends Dan Ingram and Paco at the Museum of Broadcasting. Mike annoyed Dan Ingram with many Stern questions. Dan downplayed Howard's success, and said that he didn't listen to Howard. Paco, who used to host a popular show on WKTU was more friendly, and gave his opinion about Howard's separation. Howard talked the time that Paco was busted for selling heroin. Mike called in later to explain how he got polio. Howard couldn't understand how he got a disease that has been pretty much eradicated. Mike's parents never vaccinated him against the disease. Howard then said that he would like to challenge Mike to an arm wrestling match with his dead arm.

Doctor who wrote "Husbands Who Love Men" calls in

Howard talked to Doctor Aileen Atwood about her book "Husbands Who Love Men". The premise of her book was that women cannot "change" husbands that are gay. She urged women to avoid marrying gay men, and suggested that gay men shouldn't get married to women because it was unfair to the women and their children. You really never got what the book was about though because Howard just wanted to talk about his opinion about the subject. Howard said that most guests on the show were just there so he and Robin could give their opinions on subjects. What the guest wanted to promote or talk about was secondary.

David Grohl and drummer Taylor come in

David Grohl and Taylor from the Foo Fighters came in to promote their new album. Howard first talked all the band members that have been kicked out or have left the band. David then performed an acoustic version of "Hero". Howard requested that he do this because of the overwhelming response that he got from performing "Evermore" acoustically. Howard also played cuts from the band's new album. Howard really dug the tunes, playing more than he usually does for a band. Howard said that the Foo Fighters are one of the best bands today, and that their music makes him really sad.

Tuesday 10/26/9

Howard goes off on The View

In the opening segment of The View yesterday, Starr Jones and Barbara Walters didn't have very nice things to say about Howard and his separation. Walters didn't understand what the big hubbub was all about, after all separations happen all the time. Jones said that she hated Howard and that she didn't think that they should be promoting a trash mouth. When Melrose Larry Green played the tape for Howard he went off on the two. He called Starr Jones a big fat pig, and didn't understand how any man could be with her. He said that no straight man is into fat chicks like her and can't imagine how any guy would want to search for her private parts under all the folds of fat. As for Walters, Howard said that she of course wouldn't understand, after all she's been divorced 4 times. He said that men must only want her for the money, because no one could possibly be attracted to her.

Howard talks about the bizarre drug bust of Matthew McConaughey

Howard talked about how odd it was that Matthew McConaughey was caught naked with another guy high on marijuana. He wondered if there could be any scenario in which he would be smoking dope naked with another guy, and he couldn't think of one. He told Robin to shoot his mother, if he was ever caught doing that, because she shouldn't have to live with the embarrassment.

Bush comes in

Gavin Rossdale and Bush came in this morning to perform "Chemicals Between Us" and to promote their new album "The Science of Things". After their performance Gavin and the gang wouldn't elaborate on much. Gavin didn't talk about his history with drugs and didn't want to talk much about his girlfriend Gwen Stefanni. I think Howard got the vibe that they weren't going to say much and the interview ended soon. Get yourself some Bush Today!

Sandra Bernhard and Richard Belzer call in Sandra Bernhard and Richard Belzer called in to express their sympathy for Howard. Sandra called in first. She invited Howard to hang out now that he was single. When Belzer called in, he too invited Howard out. Howard talked about how strange it is that he still doesn't want to go out, even though he now has the freedom to do so. For those who like books, please pick up a copy of Sandra's May I

Howard talks about the separation

It was an on air therapy session today as Howard elaborated on what went wrong with his marriage. Here is a capsulation of what he talked about.

- What the news is reporting - Howard read some of the articles about that have been written about his breakup. He disagreed with the conclusions made by many of them.
- What caused the separation - Howard said that the relationship fell apart when neither he or Alison could agree on what they wanted for their future. Alison wanted Howard to be more involved, while Howard wanted more independence. Howard said that he was no prize to live with, and that he would often be reclusive when he came home after a hard day of work. Alison felt that he was too distant, and Howard couldn't change the way he is. Howard said that he's always been a recluse, and that Alison just got fed up.
- What didn't cause the separation - Howard denied reports that his on air antics led to the separation. He said that Alison didn't like his reclusiveness, not what he did on the air. He said that the separation was not about his wanting to date. He said that was the last thing that he was thinking of right now.
- How the crew reacted - Howard said that Robin and Gary had called him after hearing the news. He said that he was a little bummed that Jackie and Fred didn't call. Jackie and Fred said that they that Howard was going through enough, and that their call may be a bother.
- The irony of the breakup - Howard talked about the irony of how well he and Alison get along. He said that he had spent the weekend with Alison and the kids and the two had been very cordial. He re-emphasized that the separation was amicable as demonstrated by their mediated breakup. He said that the whole family is in shock, because the two were so perfect together. He said that he still loves Alison and the kids very much, but that the two were no longer working as a married couple.
- What exactly is a "separation"? - Robin wanted to know what a "separation" meant as opposed to a divorce. Howard said that they were no longer legally married. All financial and visitation concerns have been finalized. He said that if the two reconciliated though, that the agreement could be torn up, and they could go back to being married. John wanted to know if that meant that Howard couldn't bang Alison anymore. The gang then ribbed John for asking such an insensitive question.

Howard said that the separation has been the most devastating thing that he has done, next to hiring Jackie. He took phone calls for most of the morning from fans who wanted to talk about the breakup.

Rabbi who took Michael Jackson to Temple comes in

In one of the few moments of levity on today's show, Howard invited in the Rabbi who took Michael Jackson to temple. Rabbi Shmuley Boteach was quite a character. He didn't sound at all like a real rabbi just by the comments that he was making. He brought in a sheet with a hole in it for Howard to use during sex, and said that the Lord Jesus Christ loves you all. Howard didn't have patience with the rabbi's humor, and just wanted to know about Michael Jackson. The rabbi talked about how he met Jacko and claimed to have played with his kids in Jackson's living room. Howard didn't have the patience to hear all of Shmuley's story and ended it quickly. Pick up a copy of Shmuley's book Kosher Sex.

Monday 10/11/99

Howard's weekend indoors

Howard talked about how he had to spend his weekend indoors because of this weekend's mosquito spraying on Long Island. He expressed concern over the potential risks from the mosquito poison. He said that his friend's dog got outside and threw up because of the spraying. Howard worried that the mosquito outbreak may have been caused by some terrorist based on a story he read this weekend. Later in the show, John talked about how his friend's rabbit died from being outside during the spraying.

Lyndon Johnson tape played

While Lyndon Johnson was President he recorded many of his phone calls, much like Nixon did years later. Howard played a tape of Lyndon talking his tailor about how he liked his pants. The tape was rather odd in that it was a recording of the President talking about the way he liked his pants. Shockingly, he referred to his "nuts" and "bung hole", and even belched while talking.

Howard plays tape of Gary reading to children

As a favor to a friend, Baba Boeey went on a local PBS affiliate to read in front of a group of elementary school children. It was rather humorous to hear Gary explain to the kids what he did for a living. Gary never mentioned Howard by name, only referring to him as his "boss". To make Gary feel right at home, the kids even called him Baba Boeey.

Guy who attended Candy Apples' 1,000 gang bang calls in

Guy who claimed to be one those who attended Candy Apples' 1,000 gang bang called in. He said that the whole thing was a sham, and that there was no more than a 100 guys there to have sex with her, and that the guys came back over and over again to raise up her total. He said that decided not to participate after he got bad vibes from the whole scene.

Howard is meeting Mel on Wednesday to discuss Andre and Tom

After a caller complained about the latest hacking of the show by Andre, Howard announced that he was having a meeting with Mel Karmazin to discuss the issue. He said that his goal is to get Andre off the button, and to put someone there who knows what he or she is doing. He said that he was also going to see if he could get the problems that he's been having with Tom resolved. Howard explained that ever since they've moved into the new building Tom has been unable to deal with the heat of the studio. He said that the show should have never been moved into its current location in that the ceilings are too low, forcing the hot lamps to bear down on him. He said that he will also the address the live commercial issue in which he has to read the same commercials commercials day after day, instead of resting his voice for the show.

Gary tries to get the rights to Jerry Lewis' nazi clown movie

Baba Boeey didn't have much luck in getting the rights to Jerry Lewis' "The Night The Clown Cried". Jerry's people insisted that Jerry wanted this movie to be out there, but couldn't because of all the legal wranglings surrounding the film. They said that this movie is much like "Life is Beautiful" and that no price could buy the film.

Friday 10/8/99

Robin's triumphant night discussed

Howard talked about the triumphant night Robin had at her charity event last night. Howard talked about how difficult it was to get to the event because President Clinton was also in town last night. Gary talked about how there was a buzz in the room that night because of Howard's attendance. Howard talked about how Ralph is in love with Gary's wife, and how no one can believe that the long legged blonde beauty is married to Baba Booey. Robin was touched by the event and almost teared up while speaking. Robin also talked about how Jackie, John, and Gary were auctioned off for a day of golf.

Adult film star Rebecca Lord comes in Adult film star Rebecca Lord came in right off the street. She wasn't scheduled to come in, she just did, and Gary obliged. Howard couldn't believe how good looking she was. Howard said that she was pretty enough to be a model. Howard suggested that she be the card girl for today's Gay Family Feud. The segment was going to be filled with gay men, and Howard felt that she would be good for keeping the straight men in the audience tuned in during the segment.

Gay Family Feud played

Today's match of the feud had the San Francisco Sissies face the Long Island Lillies. Howard was the host, and Rebecca Lord turned the board. Robin wondered why Howard wasn't kissing the contestants ala Richard Dawson style. Here are some of the categories that the contestants played: Who is the hottest guy? Worst thing that you were ever called, most popular drug used for sex, and if you had to have sex with a woman who would it be? The Long Island Lillies won.

Rob Zombie calls in

Rob Zombie called in to promote the Haunted Halloween at Universal Studios, instead he spent most of the call critiquing popular bands of today. Howard threw out a few band names and Rob commented about them. Rob thought that singers Brittany Spears and Christine Aguilera were your typical bad packaged pop singers, and thought that Alanis Morissette was just an angry hippie. Howard said that he would like Rob to participate in a weekly segment in which he critiques the bands. Rob was open to the idea.

Rock legend Leslie West comes in

A much thinner Leslie West of Mountain came in to promote his latest album. Leslie had lost 125 lbs. As always, Howard asked Leslie about the techniques he uses to get an erection. Leslie, a diabetic for years, is unable to get an erection because of his condition. Leslie currently injects his penis directly and also uses Viagra. Leslie came into the studio with his newest girlfriend. Leslie explained how the two came together. Leslie also promoted hitthebeach.com a website that he has put money into.

Thursday 10/7/99

Robin's charity event tonight discussed

Howard talked about the big shindig that Robin was putting together tonight. She is playing host to a charity that helps in the prevention of child abuse. Robin talked about how generous Dominic

Barbara was being to help out the charity. Howard said that Dominic is able to be so charitable because of the fortune that he's generated out of being a divorce attorney. Howard said that the one man's misery is Dominic's gold mine. Howard wondered where the world would get its strippers if Robin is able to wipe out child abuse. Later in the show, Benjy and Scott expressed disappointment that they weren't invited to the event. Howard decided that he would invite Scott, and John said that he may invite Benjy because his wife might not be able to go.

Queen for a Day played

Today's Queen for a Day was played for probably the best gift ever awarded from the Howard Stern Show: A $40,000 car from CarsDirect.com. Today's contestants were Lisa, Sarah, and Marci. Here are there tear jerking stories.

- Lisa - Born heroin addicted. Father forced to her to give oral sex to him and her brother. After telling authorities, she was separated from her brother. Got pregnant at 13, and had to give away the baby. Got pregnant again at 17. Became a hooker, got raped with a broomstick, got hooked on coke, beat up by her pimp, got hooked on crack, boyfriend hung himself, sister and brother overdosed. She overdosed too but survived.
- Sarah - Mom married 5 times. Molested by dad. 1st boyfriend and friend raped her. Mother gave custody of her back to the molesting father when she was 15. Got pregnant at 16. Husband never got a job. Husband now has custody of their kid.
- Marci - Father tied her and her brother to a tree and threatened to kill them. As a baby sitter she had sex with the father and got pregnant at 16. She became a hooker at 18. Got lock jaw after giving oral to 50 to 60 guys a day. Got beat up by pimp in front of her son. Pimp burned down her house and is now $125,000 in debt.

Out of the three women, Howard and the gang felt the least sympathetic to Sarah. In fact, Sarah was extremely cute and "catty" during the whole interview. Sarah claimed to be a nympho, and said that she couldn't get enough. Howard and the gang particularly liked the way she moved around to get their attention. Of the three women, Lisa had the most depressing history. She picked a Mercedes for her grand prize. The other two won boob jobs from Dr. Calabro.

Wednesday 10/6/99

Go Go's come in

Girl band supergroup The Go Go's came in to promote their latest single. They recently got back together to produce a single for the "Superstar" soundtrack. Howard asked the three why they have so many problems keeping the band together. He suspected that Jane is jealous of all of Belinda's success. Belinda is the beautiful blonde cheerleader type who got all the attention; nabbed the good looking husband, and has several houses all across the world. Jane has recently broken up with her husband and is looking forward to losing half of her money in the divorce proceedings. The girls were real good sports. They performed an acoustic version of "He's Got Big Teeth." They also performed one of Jane's old number's "Rope". Check out the entire Go Go's CD Library.

F-E Emmy's return

The world's longest Award's ceremony returned today. Today Howard gave an award away for show's wackiest listener. The nominees were: The lady who cried from listening to Howard's 9 Inch Nails Miscarriage song, The guy who thought he was Jesus, and the black woman who hated blacks. The black woman who hated blacks won. Howard played a voice mail message from her.

Robin Radzinsky Two Truths and a Lie played

We learned a lot about the show's other Robin today. Howard read 5 different Two Truths and a Lie about Robin. Here is what we learned:

- Robin is a member of the mile high club
- She once found herself bathed and powdered in a strange bed after blacking out from heavy drinking
- was best friends with Lonnie Anderson's daughter
- grew fur after eating only frozen yogurt for a month
- went with a man and woman on their honeymoon
- got ticketed for urinating in public on her first date
- gave oral sex to her boss numerous times under his desk
- lost her virginity to Valerie Bertinelli's brother high on mushrooms
- father used have her get out of the car on crutches to get handicapped parking spaces.

Another voice mail from Lisa "The Blind" Playmate

Howard played another voice mail from Lisa today. On this one she was crying and begging for money because her phone was going to be pulled. Howard called her and said that she was being ridiculous. He said that she should watch the E! show with him playing tennis against the guy in a wheel chair, displaying what one can do when motivated. He told her that she could at least get a job in a bar waitressing or being a receptionist in an office.

Doctor gives advice to those who are "Pee Shy"

Dr. Soifer called in to give advice to those who suffer from Paruresis, an inability to pee in public. Howard for years has talked about how he couldn't pee in public because of his genital size. The doctor said that he too had suffered with this condition for years because of the teasing he used to get as a child. Chauncey Hayden called in to say that he couldn't pee without putting his hand in warm water. Howard talked about the time his father took him to a seedy motel and yelled at him when he couldn't urinate. Ben called in later to defend himself.

All girl band comes in to sing their song topless

The all girl band Celeste came in to perform one of their songs topless. All the band members where hot and claimed to all be bisexual. While performing their techno/disco single they all got topless and started making out with each other. Howard said that he would like them even better if they didn't sing.

Tuesday 10/5/99

David Bowie and Al Sharpton cancel

For the last couple of weeks Howard has been promoting David Bowie's appearance which was scheduled for today. At the last minute, Bowie's people canceled the appearance because he had the "flu". Howard wasn't buying it one bit. Bowie was on the Letterman Show last night, and probably didn't want to get up this morning to do the show, Howard said. Howard thought that Bowie's decision was an unwise one because Letterman's audience is about 3.5 million to Howard's 17 million. Howard said that he didn't really care that Bowie cancelled because he felt that most people in the audience would rather hear him talk than listen to a musical performance. Sharpton cancelled too, but will be on later in the week. He had to postpone his appearance because of a personal emergency.

Howard talks about how he clogged his toilet

Howard talked about how he clogged his toilet with doodie last night. He said the movement was so massive that it wouldn't flush down. Instead of plunging it clear, he waited 'til the morning when the movement was looser and easier to flush. Stuttering John talked about how he deals with a clogged toilet. He said that he would plunge it out, and then wash off the plunger in the bathroom sink. The gang was thoroughly disgusted considering that he washed doodie down the same sink he brushed his teeth in. Scott DePace talked about the time he used his hand to unclog a toilet because he couldn't find the plunger. John said that he once clogged Vinne Mazzeo's toilet, and Vinnie used his own hand in John's movement to get it clear.

KC expresses disappointment over Adam Sandler's newest CD

Adam Sandler's biggest fan, KC, talked about how disappointed he was with Adam Sandler's latest CD. He said that it was horrible, and that he wanted to chuck it out the window while listening to it in his car. Howard played a couple of clips from the CD, lots of baby talk and no laughs.

Melrose Larry Green calls in with an Extra report about Michael Jackson's newfound interest in Judaism

Michael Jackson has recently been going to temple. Melrose called in with an Extra report about the pop singer's newfound interest in Judaism. Howard then talked about the absurdity of most religions with it rules and intolerance.

Howard contemplates smashing David Bowie's guitar

Much like the time Howard cut the wires to Soupy Sale's Piano, Howard contemplated smashing David Bowie's guitar because of his lame cancellation this morning. The band had left behind millions of dollars worth of equipment in the studio in preparation for his visit. Howard went over to the set up and tried out Bowie's guitar. Instead of smashing it, Howard and Robin played a couple of KC's quiz games and playfully rewarded the guitars to themselves. Tom was ticked off by Bowie's cancellation because of the $350 deli plate that he ordered for their appearance. Tom Cheapasano wanted to return the plate back to the deli but couldn't.

Howard squares off with Andre again over "the button"

Howard became enraged again when he found out that Andre had edited out a woman who claimed that her butt hurt after anal sex. Howard said to Tom and Andre that he was going to call Mel Karmazin about this issue, and was going to suggest to Mel that Andre be taken off this responsibility. Howard said that he was going to ask Mel to put Tom back into that hot seat because he was a little better and more consistent regarding words that should be "dumped". Andre has been inconsistent and his judgement has been completely arbitrary, Howard complained. The gang then began to talk about Andre's website and his fanatical love of the Beatles.

Monday 10/4/99

Two women come in to get naked and throw up on each other

Two women named Cream and Shell came in to demonstrate the latest fetish in the porn industry. Shell was going to vomit on the naked Cream. The very annoying producer of the film Vomitorium Johnny Toxic came along with them. Howard couldn't understand why these two beautiful women would get into vomiting on each other. Neither thought of it as weird. KC was getting into the idea. When Karim got naked, Shell vomited on her back. Gary was so grossed out by this he even vomited. Johnny Toxic said that the two were going to be in the sequel Vomitorium 2, and asked those who wanted to be vomited on to call 877-IVomit2.

Arnold Schwarzenegger calls in Arnold Schwarzenegger called in this morning from a plane. There was apparently confusion on when he was supposed to be on. Howard had been promoting that he would be on this week, when in fact he wasn't supposed to be on until November. Not wanting to disappoint the fans, Arnold called in while flying over France. Arnold congratulated Howard on all his projects, and even confirmed that OJ was originally cast as the Terminator. Arnold will be on in November to promote his movie "Final Days". Arnold Fan? Why not pick "The Films of Arnold Schwarzenegger"?

Candy Apples comes in Adult film Star Candy Apples came in to promote her 1,000 gang bang. To top of the gang bang, she will get married to her fiancée. Howard couldn't believe how good looking she was, and wondered why she would do a 1,000 gang bang. She said that she wasn't an abused child and grew up in a middle class household in Orange County California. She said that she was a nymphomaniac, and has been very sexual from a young age. She claimed to have given hand jobs to the teachers aides as early as the third grade. When she reached high school age, she used to give oral to teachers for better grades. Read about other adult film stars in "The X-Rated Videotape Star Index II : A Guide to Your Favorite Adult Film Stars".

Friday 10/1/99

Gary Garver and Stuttering John interview played

Howard played the interviews that Gary Garver did at the Warren Beatty fund raiser. The first person that he interviewed was M.A.S.H.'s Mike Ferrell. The questions were mostly the generics that he uses. Mike couldn't believe the kind of questions that he was getting from this CBS reporter. He kept on asking Gary if he was an idiot. Gary kept on charging on with more questions before Mike walked off. Gary then got a hold of Penny Marshall. One of the questions that he asked was: "What do you think about the lesbian undertones of Laverne & Shirley?" He also asked her why Rosie O'Donnell hates Howard so much. Howard then played Stuttering John's interviews with Evander Holyfield and Don King. One of the questions he asked Evander was, "Aren't you afraid of becoming retarded like Muhammad Ali." As for Don King, he was completely unfazed by everything that John asked him. When John asked him if he had ever farted during a press conference, Don went to talk about the how great the human body was, and there was nothing that was wrong with any thing that it did.

Gay guy comes down to rub KC's feet

Howard invited down a guy who has a fetish for men's feet. The man's dream was to massage KC's feet. He said that he once came to completion looking at Howard's feet in his book. KC was really resistant to the idea of him rubbing his feet. "I'm not going to let this dickbag touch my feet KC said." The gang ribbed KC for being so homophobic. Howard then showed KC that it wasn't such a big deal by letting the guy rub his own feet. After a ton of coercion, KC allowed the man to touch his feet, but only after he stuffed KC's sock into his mouth. Although KC didn't allow him to rub oils over his feet, he did manage to put a toe ring on him.

Elephant Boy and Abby return

Elephant Boy and Abby returned today with a contract in hand. Howard said yesterday that he wasn't going to promote Fred's porno unless their was a contract promising Fred money. When he saw the contract that Abby and her husband had written up, he rejected it saying that it didn't guarantee Fred anything. For one, the contract included in it a line saying the agreement was null and void if the promotion of the video tape wasn't up to their standard. The wording was so vague that they could always say that Howard didn't promote the tape the way they wanted him to so as to not give Fred any money. It also promised Fred 34% of the net revenue, not the gross. So with tricky accounting, they could always say that they never earned a profit denying Fred money again. Abby was incensed saying that Howard was following through on his word. She said that the contract did guarantee Fred money, and that Howard was being unfair by not promoting the tape. Her husband then called in yelling. He stated that Fred had already signed a contract for no money, and that this contract at least guaranteed him something. He said that Howard wasn't acting in good faith by not promoting the tape. Howard stood to his guns and said that he wasn't going to plug the tape unless it guaranteed him money up front, or a percentage of the gross. He suggested to Fred to get legal advice before he signed the contract. Abby said that they would work something out and soon return.

DL Hughley comes in Comedian DL Hughley came down to play the Mike Walker Game and promote his new ABC show. When Howard asked DL if he likes to read the Enquirer, he said that he didn't because once he had read a story in which he was quoted, when he never even talked to them. Mike was incensed. He said that the Enquirer didn't run that story, and he wanted DL to state the he didn't know where he read it from. DL admitted that he didn't know which tabloid it was, other than it had other stories about aliens and babies. Mike said that DL wouldn't like it if he had called him a liar. DL told Mike to shut up. "It's not like you work for the Times" he said to Mike. When the game was over, DL talked about his days growing up in South Central Los Angeles. Howard asked him what game he was associated with. DL said it was the Bloods. He denied ever having robbed or killed while in the gang. "No robbing, no killing? What kind of gang member are you DL?" Howard asked. To end off the interview, Howard replayed the ebonics phony phone call that Gary made to him.

Jasmin St. Claire comes in to wrestle Benjy

Adult film and gang bang star Jasmin St. Claire came in to wrestle fat Benjy. She's still doing porno, but now has started wrestling to add to her cache of talents. It was no match, 200lb Benjy beat the tiny porno star everytime. As his reward, Jasmine said that she would allow Benjy to give her oral sex. Howard couldn't believe how generous she was being. Benjy was certainly looking forward to collecting his winning.

Deaf comedian Kathy Buckley comes in Kathy Buckley was on the show years ago, and apparently has been trying to get on ever since. To get her on again, her manager told Gary that she had been raped and survived cancer. Thinking that this was a recent occurrence, Howard invited the deaf comedian back on. When Kathy came in she quickly revealed that the rape had occurred years ago when she was 16 and that they had discussed it on the show the last time that she was on. Her cancer was also long ago. It was cervical cancer, and she's doing fine now. The most shocking thing about her interview was that she hasn't been laid in 11 years. Howard couldn't believe how long she's been celibate. Howard asked her if she masturbated to get rid of the tension, she denied that she did. She said that she no longer has any sexual feelings. Howard said that the rape must be the reason why she's not having sex. She said that looking at Gottfried, she knows why she's celibate.

Gilbert Gottfried comes in for the news

Show favorite Gilbert Gottfried came back on to do the news. Howard talked about Gilbert's good fortune of being a regular on the Hollywood Squares. Gilbert talked about how Marlon Brando called the show's producers to complain about the Brando jokes that Gilbert was making on the show. Gilbert also did a terrific riff on Jerry Seinfeld and Abbott & Costello during the news.

Thursday 9/30/99

Kelsey Grammer and wife Camille come in

Kelsey Grammer and Camille came in today. Quite a shocker considering the ribbing he's gotten from Howard over the years. Before he arrived, Howard talked about the horrible things that have happened to him. His father was murdered by a mental patient that was released from jail. His sister was raped and murdered. His brothers were eaten by sharks, and his stripper wife once beat him up. Howard said that out of all people, Kelsey should be allowed to drink. Kelsey came in today because of an upcoming episode of Frasier in which he has to confront the station's shock jock. Kelsey admitted to being a casual listener of the show. Kelsey talked about some of hard ships that he had to go through in his life. Howard praised him for nabbing Camille. Kelsey and Camille claimed that don't have sex everyday because of her irritable bowel syndrome. Howard said that shouldn't interfere with at least giving Kelsey fallatio.

Elephant Boy comes in to explain why he did a porno movie

Elephant Boy came in with Abbey, the woman that he "worked" with in his porno. Howard was rather shocked by the piece. He said that he always thought that underneath the elephant that Fred was a rather nice kid. In the video, Fred is in garters, and takes it up the butt with a dildo. Elephant Boy was defensive and said that he did the movie because he enjoyed it. Fred said that he wanted to retire because of all the ribbing he was getting for being gay. Howard was taken aback by Fred's reaction. He felt that Fred was being taken down a dark path by Abby and the makers' of this video. When Howard asked if Fred had been paid yet, Fred said that he hadn't but would be paid in the future. Howard could see right through this and said that he wouldn't plug the porno until Fred was guaranteed money. Abbey, angered by the way things were going, claimed that Fred was going to be paid and the details would be worked out later. Howard said that he wouldn't promote her site or the video until he saw that Fred would be paid in writing.

Roseanne comes in

Roseanne Barr came in to promote her new band the Barr Flies. Little did she know what was in store. Howard asked her if it would be alright if he was to get Tom Arnold on the phone so that they could patch things up. Roseanne resisted saying that there were a lot of bad feelings left because he stole from her after the breakup. Howard said that maybe they could work these issues through on the phone. Fireworks erupted when Tom came online. He denied stealing $2 million from Roseanne as she claimed. She then asked him, "How many times did you hit me Tom?". Tom denied ever laying a hand on her, and said that this was the problem that she had with all men. "You always have to be the victim Rosie," he claimed. Roseanne claimed that Tom admitted to hitting her during the court deposition. She said that she would fax it to Howard. While the two weren't able to "patch things up", it was quite compelling to listen to.

Wednesday 9/29/99

Lisa "the blind" Playboy Playmate leaves a nasty voice mail

Howard played a voice mail message from Lisa "the blind" Playboy Playmate begging for money. She was on the show months ago, and she was hardly blind. She said that the show was cold for not helping her out while she's struggling for food. Howard called her up to see what her problem was now. She said that she couldn't get a job because the police were harassing her in Toronto. Howard wasn't buying her pity party. He said that she was a pretty and able bodied girl and that she shouldn't be begging for money. Several callers yelled at her for whining so much. Lisa then wanted to promote a really bad b-movie that she was in "Cannibal Roller Babes". Howard stated that it was strange that she could work for a movie, but couldn't work as a receptionist or waitress.

Mary McCormack comes in to promote her new movie

Howard's movie wife Mary McCormack came in to promote her new movie "Mystery Alaska". Stuttering John saw her at the movie premiere last night and said that her boobs were phenomenal. Howard and the gang kept on asking her if she got a boob job recently. She swore on the life of her father that she hadn't. While at the premiere John was able to interview Burt Reynolds briefly. When John asked him why there were so many Jews in Hollywood, Burt shoved him and his microphone away, and kept on shouting, "Do you like that Howard? Do you like that Howard?" John also talked about his night with Jackie last night. He said that while he was brushing his teeth, Jackie came in butt naked and took a dump. Jackie denied being naked, but admitted to taking a dump right in front of John. When the conversation came back to Mary, Howard asked her if she was aroused during their makeout scene in Private Parts. She said that she was. She said that she didn't get aroused in her makeout scene in this movie.

Godfather Joe comes back in Godfather Joe came back in to get his Hitler book and stamps authenticated. The authenticator said that the books and stamps were not rare, and that you could probably only get $150 for the book. Once again, Joe was stiffed by life. His father sold him the book for $500 years ago, when it wasn't even worth that much. Joe was appreciative of Howard's help, and said that if Howard ever needed "a favor" in the future to give him a call.

Guess Who's the Ex-Intern game played

Gary came up with the idea for this game because Howard never remembers the interns that come through there. Out of the three people that Gary put forth, neither Howard or Robin could guess who the intern was. The intern worked for Scott a couple of years, and now is writing music reviews. He wrote the review that Nancy Sirianni put on her new album.

Tom upset by comments that Howard made yesterday

While ranting about the editing that Andre was doing yesterday, Howard said that he had "mixed feelings" about Tom while he was out last year. Tom was out battling skin cancer. Tom was apparently listening yesterday, and said that the comments upset him. Howard said that he loved Tom as a friend, but couldn't stand him as a boss, and that was the reason for his mixed feelings. Tom also talked about how Jackie charged liquor to the company tab at the VMA awards which is against company policy.

Wheelchair Tennis player Steve Welch comes in Wheelchair Tennis player Steve Welch came in to relish his lopsided victory against Howard. He beat Howard in 6 straight sets. Howard said that Steve was incredible. You'll see the match in one of the upcoming TV shows. Steve was so good that he beat Howard and Stuttering John when they doubled up. While watching the tape, they enjoyed watching the totally out of shape John trying to hit the ball back to Steve. The gang also talked about how they kept on noticing John's pubic hair at the top of his sweat pants. John's pubic hair goes up incredibly high. In the studio, John pulled down his pants to show the gang how high it goes. Howard said that Steve was an inspiration to others, considering the obstacles that he has to battle.

Tuesday 9/28/99

Backside Boys Buzz

Howard talked about how everyone has been digging the new Backside Boys. Vinny from the syndicated show said that he wanted to make a video with the new group, but would have to get money from Comedy Central to make it. Howard found it odd that he works for a multibillion dollar corporation that still seems to never have any money. Howard and the Backside Boys sang "Get KY" again. It took Howard several different tries to get it right. Once he got it right, he was disappointed to find out that Andre once again edited out a verse. When the Backside Boys sang yesterday, Andre edited out words to "My Brown Eye", but didn't touch "Get KY". Howard couldn't understand why something that was okay yesterday, wasn't okay today. He went ballistic saying that he wanted out. "I work my balls off every day to produce this crap, and all you do is dump all over it!" He yelled at Andre. Andre stated that this was the last time that he was going to discuss this on the air with Howard. Howard was annoyed that the edits were so arbitrary and change on a day to day basis. What's your opinion about the editing? Please post your message on the KARL FM

Message Board.F-Emmy's return

Howard gave 2 new F-Emmy's away today. For Angriest Celebrity, Pat Cooper was the clear cut winner. Pat immediately began to rip into Geraldo who scammed his years ago with his family. Howard called him a scumbag and felt vindicated that Geraldo was breaking up with his wife just as he predicted years ago. Pat also ripped into Tommy Lasorda calling him a cheap bastard. Howard asked Pat if he always woke up angry. For the second category, AJ Benza won for Best Celebrity Non Sexual Revelation. AJ won for talking about the time he was clocked by Chuck Zito.

Guy in a wheel chair challenges Howard to a game of tennis

Howard announced today that he was going to play tennis against a guy in a wheel chair. Steve Welch challenged to a game a couple of weeks ago. Howard at the time thought it would be funny to see if he couldn't beat a guy in a wheel chair. Today, however, Howard said it was a no win situation, stating that if he beat him people would down play it because he was handicapped. If Howard lost, people would laugh at his inability to beat a guy in a wheel chair. When Howard met Steve, he knew it was over. Steve is the 2nd best wheel chair tennis player in the world. His delivery packs a 90 mph punch. Howard said that he probably wouldn't be able to even return a serve. Not backing down, Howard said that he would play Steve later today.

Guy who had sex with his daughter calls in

A guy called in claiming that he had an incestuous relationship with his daughter who at the time was 25 years old. He justified the relationship saying that he didn't raise her and hadn't seen her until she was 25, and that they immediately had an attraction towards each other. The man was incredibly calm about the claims he was making. He said that the relationship lasted 3 years, and that he didn't feel bad about it. They are currently not having sex because he said that he wanted to just have a good "Father-Daughter relationship" now. Most of the callers were horrified. But one of the female callers said that she had once made out with her father when she was 18. Richard Lewis called in to say that after hearing this, he thought his dysfunctional life was now normal.

Monday 9/27/99Joe the Sicilian wants to sell his Hitler book

Howard may have met the newest member of the wack pack. Joe the Sicilian came in with a book that he claims was taken from Hitler's bunker during WWII. He said that his father retrieved the book when they broke into his bunker. The book seemed legit to Howard and the gang. The book is over 130 pages long, filled with pictures of Adolf Hitler. Joe wanted to sell it, but he didn't know what it was worth. Howard suggested that Joe wait until he has it authenticated by someone with knowledge in this field. Howard seemed to be more interested in Joe, than the book he had. Joe's father didn't give him the book, he sold it too him for $500. Joe talked about how he was abused by his father, and how he hated him. Joe also talked about some of his personal problems. He's suffering from Post Traumatic syndrome, yet he never served in any war, and didn't know where it came from. Joe is also suffering from a severe prostate problem, in which he can't urinate all day. He said that each night he inserts a foot long cathoder into his penis which drains out the urine. Joe will come in on Wednesday for the book to be authenticated.

Houston - Brad update

The last time that we heard from the prom couple, we learned that Brad was going out to Vegas to see Houston. The Vegas trip turned out to be the turning point in their relationship. Houston complained that Brad was too "needy" and it bothered her that he was constantly around her while she was trying to work. Brad claimed that she was exaggerating, and that she suggested that he come to many of the events that she was complaining about. The callers were supportive of Brad. They didn't like that fact that Houston invited him out to Las Vegas, and then was annoyed when he wanted to spend time with her. They also were sympathetic to the fact that Brad was only 18 and may not know how to properly handle a woman like her. Houston claimed that she wasn't opposed to seeing Brad again. In fact, she said that she may see him again when she's out in NY in November. Brad admitted that he had fallen in love with Houston, and was angry that he was treated so poorly while out in Las Vegas. Will the saga continue???

Howard and the Backside Boys rehearse their new songs

Howard last Friday announced that he and the gang were working on a Backstreet Boys song parody. Today they sang two parodies of "Tell Me Why". The new songs are, "My Brown Eye" and "Get KY". The fans preferred "Get KY" over "My Brown Eye". Howard got angry when a caller reported that Andre edited out a verse to their song. Andre edited out "Molest me with rat", and "...enough space for Lincoln's Hat." After his anger had settled, Howard talked about the possibility of making a video for the new Backside Boys. Howard said that he would like to appear on "Total Request Live" if they were to make the video. The final version of the song should be done soon.

Richard Belzer comes in

The 'Belz' came in to promote his character Detective Munch's move to the new Law & Order series. A woman came in to have her breasts evaluated. Howard was shocked to see Belzer turn his head when she pulled off her top. Howard asked him if he had any balls. Belzer had one of his testicles removed years ago. Belzer said that he turned away because he felt embarrassed for the woman. At the end of the show Belzer thanked Howard for getting him the job with Homicide, which led to this current stint at Law & Order. Richard Belzer recently put out his book "Ufos, JFK and Elvis : Conspiracies You Don't Have to Be Crazy to Believe". Make sure you get yourself a copy.

Howard rails against Diana Ross

Howard repeated that he was happy that the ex Supreme was detained two days ago by London airport officials. He said it was a display of absolute arrogance on her part that she didn't want to be padded down by security. He said that they should have thrown her in prison for 5 to 7 years for her behavior. Later in the show two callers complained about the experiences that they had with the arrogant singer.

Howard works on a Backstreet Boys song parody

Howard and the gang are working on their latest song parody. It will be a parody of the Backstreet Boys song, "Tell Me Why". Their tentative title is "My Brown Eye". Later in the show, Howard and Fred sang a little of the song, but couldn't follow through because KC screwed up the musical bed.

Roger Ebert comes in

Roger Ebert dropped by to play the Mike Walker game. Both he and Howard remembered how great he and Siskel were together. Howard noticed that Roger had lost weight. He gave credit to the Pritikin Diet, and criticized high protein diets that are so popular today. One guy called in to criticize Ebert's belief that high protein diets were dangerous. When the discussion went to movies, Howard asked Ebert to quote movie cliches that you always see in film. Ebert wrote a whole book about movie cliches. As for this year's movies, Ebert likes "American Beauty", which Robin didn't like so much. Ebert didn't like "Jakob the Liar", or "Outside Providence." He was really disappointed when Howard said that he liked "Outside Providence." Howard also asked Roger about life growing up. It turns out that Roger was really popular as a high school student, although he didn't lose his virginity

'til he was 20. He even denied that he masturbated until 20.

Robin is getting a 7th cat

On yesterday's show, Howard found out that Robin was getting a 6th cat. The woman who approved her "adoption" of the feline to call in to tell her the good news. Howard was curious as to what it took to get "approval" for the cat. She said that humane society called a few of her references before approving her. Howard wanted to know why members of the show weren't asked to be references. She said that's because she wanted the cat. Well anyways, yesterday the woman from the humane society revealed that Robin had been eyeing a 7th cat. Well today, Robin said she was going to get that 7th cat.

Dennis Rodman comes in

Dennis Rodman came in to promote his latest venture "Simon Says". In this movie he plays a black James Bond type. Howard was worried for Dennis thinking that his life no longer has direction without basketball. Dennis said that it wasn't true, and that he may have one last season in basketball, possibly with the L.A. Clippers. Howard also asked Dennis about his recent public drunkenness arrest. Dennis denied that he was causing a problem and said that the cops have been wanting to arrest him for a long time. He said that charges were dropped. When Howard asked Dennis who he was dating, Dennis said that it was someone famous with the initials "TP". Gary piped in saying that Carmen's real name Tara Patrick had the initials TP. Dennis denied it was her. Back in 1996, Dennis wrote "Bad As I Wanna Be", make sure you check it out.

Chuck Norris comes in

Chuck Norris was in town today to have his first meeting with CBS president Mel Karmazin. Today he brought in his new beautiful wife Gina. Chuck married her before the gang could throw him a new Scores bachelor party. The last time Howard threw Chuck a Scores bachelor party, Chuck soon broke up the wedding plans. When Chuck came in, he explained how he was named "well hung" by Cherokee Indians. Way back when, Chuck asked a Cherokee what the name for Wolf was. He was told that the name was "Washo". Well, the Cherokee was mistaken, Washo really means "Well Hung.". The proper word is actually Washe. Chuck and Gina also talked about their recent trip to Africa, and how Chuck spends part of his time as an officer in his local county. Back in 1997, Chuck wrote "The Secret Power Within : Zen Solutions to Real Problems", make sure you check it out.

Howard plays a prank on Tom.

Yesterday wasn't a good day for Tom. Not only did Howard berate him for editing the show, Howard also played an elaborate prank on him. Every year, Tom gives a speech to the new interns. Howard thought it would be funny if they could ask Tom goofy questions, and to see his reaction. Howard wanted to nail this one down so badly that he rehearsed with the interns three times on what they would ask Tom. Howard first had them ask for stuff, i.e. train fare, bagels, CD's and free tickets. Knowing how cheap Tom was, Howard knew this would drive him nuts. Howard then had the British intern ask, "I would like to get on the show... would my chances be good if interviewed homeless people and Ni---rs?" Tom was stunned. "In this country, Ni---rs is a pejorative term," Here are some of the other questions they asked:

- We've heard a lot about you on the air, what exactly do you do?
- Were you responsible for hiring the Greaseman?
- Would it be alright for me to sleep with girls who want to be with me because I'm an intern on the Howard Stern Show?

- Would it be alright if I threw feces on people to see how they would react?

After the grill session, Tom went up to Cathy Tobin in the hallway and berated her on the group of interns she hired this semester.

Barry "Greg Brady" Williams comes in

Barry "Greg Brady" Williams came in to promote his new CD "The Return of Johnny Bravo". Barry was quite serious about his new project, and said that he wanted to put out an album of him singing songs that he really liked. Howard asked him about rumors that he had a baby with Jason Priestly's old girlfriend. Barry denied the rumors. Howard then played tape of Benjy interviewing a hooker who claimed to have had the love child of Barry Williams. The tape was an obvious goof. Howard then brought in the lovely Anne Marie who is Barry Williams fanatic. She shook when she held his hand. Barry was quite impressed. The Losers and Barry then performed "Rhythm of the Night". Gay Ramon was brought in as a Go Go dancer, and Dan the Farter played backup "horn". The song sounded horrible with Howard banging away on the Steel Drum and Baba Booley trying to blow out notes from his trumpet. The highlight of the moment was Dan having an "accident" on the floor. This will have to be one of Barry's most memorable moments.

Wednesday 9/22/99

The Losers rehearse "Rhythm of the Night"

In preparation of tomorrow's visit by Barry "Greg Brady" Williams, Howard and the Losers rehearsed "Rhythm of the Night", one of the songs on his horrible new CD. The rendition was hilarious. Howard played the steel drums completely out of melody. Baba Booley struggled to get to even one note out of his trumpet. Gary said that he believed that his trumpet was sabotaged. Scott's shoddy engineering skills shined brightly once again, when he failed to turn up all the mikes in the room. Fred's vocal's were completely inaudible at the beginning of the song. And as usual Scott made excuses for the elements that weren't set up correctly.

Howard receives "Entertainer of the Millenium" honor

David Manheim from the Burley Bear Network came in to present Howard the "Entertainer of the Millenium" Award. David said that the Network, which serves cable television programming to college campuses nationwide, did their own unscientific survey of college students on who they thought was Entertainer of the Millenium. David said that Howard won in a landslide garnering almost 67% of the vote. Howard wasn't quite certain about the legitimacy of the award, questioning David about what the Burley Bear network was. Howard said that he would use the trophy to hit Scott over the head with.

Riley Martin calls in

A grateful Riley Martin called in to report that he will be sentenced this Friday. He said that he plead guilty to the charge of possessing "drug paraphernalia" and that he expected his sentence to be rather light, probably a year in some sort of drug rehab. Riley was thankful to Howard for helping him out when he was in prison. He also threw in his plug for his alien abduction book.

Norm McDonald comes in

Dry humorist came in to promote the 2nd season premiere of his ABC sitcom Norm. Norm came in with long time showbiz friend Artie Lang who will be making appearances this year on his show. Norm said that the two spent all night gambling. He apparently hasn't kicked his gambling problem. Norm said that he won $9,000 on baseball games but lost a little over a thousand playing cards. As for his second season on ABC, Norm said that the network has been applying pressure on him to get famous celebrities on his show. Norm said that he even called up Eddie Murphy to make an appearance. When Howard asked Norm if he was dating anyone new, Norm said that he hadn't had sex in a long time. He said that it wasn't that easy. He said that many women are leery of him because they think he's had a lot of sex, and others play hard to get so Norm wouldn't think that they were after his money. Howard had a very hard time believing Norm. One caller said that he saw Norm with a really hot woman while he was out in Vegas. Norm didn't really deny it. Before Norm left for the Regis and Kathi Lee show, Howard and the gang tried to figure out what Norm should ask her. We later learned from a caller, that Norm didn't ask any of the questions that Howard suggested to him.

Harry Shearer calls in to talk about "The Day the Clown Cried"

Howard for the last couple of weeks has been talking about Jerry Lewis' nazi clown movie, in which he plays a clown that leads children into the gas chamber. Recently Howard found out that Harry Shearer is one of the "lucky" to have seen the infamous flick. Harry first wanted to make it clear that Jerry didn't screen the movie for him, as Howard had been reporting. The film was screened for him by a guy who once worked on the Jerry Lewis telethon. Harry said that that film is as bad or even worse than you think it would be. He couldn't believe how dark it was, and what Jerry must have been thinking when making the disaster. Howard said that he would pay top money to get the rights of the film to show over the internet. He asked Gary to contact Jerry's people to see if they could work something out. Harry recently wrote "It's the stupidity, stupid."

Angry caller complains about Andre's editing

A caller steamed by all the edits made during Norm's interview called into complain. Howard has been complaining about Andre's dump button for awhile now and agreed with the caller about the absurdity of the edits. Howard called Andre in to explain exactly what he "dumped" out. Every time Andre presses the button, he is supposed to detail what he dumped out. Howard grew annoyed when he heard that Andre dropped the word "poop". Andre also pressed the dump button when Norm said that he "whacked off" a lot, and when Howard asked Norm if he had "full penetration" with a woman. Tom also joined in on the conversation explaining that there is no true formula to the edits because the FCC has made the rules so vague. The caller didn't agree at all saying that the two were ruining the show. Several other callers also voiced their opposition to Tom and Andre. "Sam Kinison" later called in from hell wondering why we are still having problems with censorship.

Gary explains why he was late to his Albany appearance

A caller from Albany called in wondering why Gary was so late to his gig up there. Gary said that he got caught into a major traffic tie up that delayed him for hours. The caller said that the promoters of the event really hammered Gary once he arrived. Gary was defensive about the whole incident stating that he left 3 ½ hours before he was scheduled on what normally takes two hours to make. Howard said that Gary should have left much earlier, protecting himself from this kind of event. Gary sounded beaten, and said to Howard, "Sometimes I think you just don't like me." Howard denied it, and said that he only wanted to help Gary. Howard said that he didn't like that Gary made these appearances at all, but Gary said that he had to because he didn't make enough money from the radio show. Howard jokingly said that whatever he was making was probably too much.

KC interrupts the news to bring in a wacky hippie chick

Near the end of the show, KC barged in saying that he hated to interrupt the news, but he had to bring in this really nutty woman. She was nutty, but not as bad as KC said she was. Howard called her a hippie chick because she liked quote poetry from the Maharashi. Howard was annoyed that KC delayed the end of the program with her, and asked that Gary clear the guests before he interrupts again.

Tuesday 9/21/99

The F-Emmy's return

After a one year hiatus, the F-Emmy's returned with a vengeance. The categories began with "Examples that Robin is cured" montage. Only one cut however showed how Robin was crazy. Howard gave her award to Gary for screwing up this bit. Gary quickly got another award for the best "Howard/Gary argument."

Best Celebrity Revelation

Alan Thicke won for the "Best Celebrity Revelation". He won for telling Howard about the time his overweight Haitian Nanny slipped into bed with him and his wife. Howard asked Alan why he was up so early this morning. Alan explained that he was getting ready to fly out to Toronto for his mother's funeral. It wasn't long ago that Alan also talked candidly on the show about his mother's drinking problem. Howard also Alan about his failed relationship with his latest wife. Alan confirmed that they were indeed separated but that he hadn't started dating yet. Alan said that this hasn't been his best summer. It wasn't all bad though, Alan was able to get his plug for his new book, "How Men Have Babies"

Best Celebrity Fight

Corey Feldman won for his fighting with his father during Howard's movie premiere show in Los Angeles. Corey may have won again for next year by fighting with Chaunce. Howard asked him about the comments he made about Ben Affleck, Matt Damon, and Gwyneth Paltrow in this May's Stepping Out Magazine. Corey trashed the stars, and said that he should be receiving all the accolades that they are. Corey backpedaled and said that the comments were taken out of context. Chaunce Hayden took offense to Corey's accusations of misrepresenting his comments. Chaunce said that he taped the interview, and that people can hear exactly what Corey said on his eyada.com radio show this weekend. The argument was quite intense.

Daniel Carver wins the Anti-Humanitarian Award

Daniel Carver called in to accept this years anti-humanitarian award. Howard played excerpts of hateful comments that Daniel has made over the past couple of years. A cop who took offense to comments Daniel made about police called in to yell at Daniel. Daniel's "obsession" with blacks is not a new thing. Daniel said that he once went in black face for Halloween when he was a child. Daniel said that he liked going on the Stern Show because it was good venue in which he could get his "message" out to all of the world.

Baba Booeey craps in his pants

Howard lightened the mood after Daniel received his award by revealing that Gary made in his pants last week. Gary, accustomed to being embarrassed on the show, had no qualms about talking about his unfortunate mishap. Gary said that this happened last Thursday morning while standing at the urinal. While letting out what he thought was only a fart, he let go a stream of diarrhea. Gary quickly ran into the stall to assess the damage. He then went into detail about how he disposed the soiled underpants. Sounds like a sure winner for next year's "Most Embarrassing Moment" award.

Friday 9/17/99

Howard proposes to put together The New Munsters starring Nicole Bass

Nicole Bass was coming in later today to talk about her sexual harassment lawsuit against the WWF. Howard thought that the whole notion of 225 lb Nicole being sexually harassed as being patently absurd. It got him to thinking about putting together a new version of the Munsters with her playing a "female" version of Herman Munster. He created scenarios where she was being sexually harassed at the WWF. One of the scenarios takes place outside the woman's locker room at the WWF. A group of guys decide to drill a hole in the wall to peer inside, when they see Nicole they run for their lives. Howard and the gang had fun in creating several other scenarios. Howard said that Nicole could play the wife, Mark Harris as her husband, Hank the Angry Drunken Dwarf as the son, and Beatlejuice as the butler.

Nicole Bass comes in to play the Mike Walker Game

Nicole Bass came in to play the Mike Walker game and explain why she's suing the WWF. After the game she claimed that she was sexually harassed and threatened. Robin and Howard were in disbelief. Howard wondered what man would sexually harass the 220lb Nicole. Robin said that if she was Nicole that she would have punched out the aggressor. Nicole also claimed that she was threatened with her life if she told anyone about the harassment. She said that there was evidence of potential harm when one of the wrestlers smashed a real guitar over her head instead of a gimmick guitar. The lawsuit was for $120 million. Howard found it hard to believe she had a case, but her and her lawyer believe that she does.

Heather Locklear comes in Heather Locklear came in for the first time since Howard jumped on top of her at the Blockbuster Entertainment Awards. Heather came in to promote her latest gig on Spin City. Howard said that she must be incredible in bed considering she was able to marry Tommy Lee and Richie Sambora. After all, these two rock stars had a ton of women, yet they wanted to marry her. Howard suggested to her that she had a really terrible self image of herself, and that she made love like an ugly woman, constantly trying to please her man. Howard later learned that her mother used to paddle her and put soap in her mouth as a young child. Howard then said, "No wonder..."

Thursday 9/16/99

Baba Booe makes a phony phone call to DL Hughley

When Gary pitched to Howard to have comedian DL Hughley on the air a couple of weeks ago, Howard wondered what they would do with him since many don't even know who he is. Gary suggested that they make a phone call to him for the pre-interview. When Gary called DL, he did the entire pre-interview in Ebonics. The amazing thing about the call was that DL understood everything that Gary said. It was like the two were talking in a different language. The other amazing thing was that he never questioned once why Gary was doing this. When it was revealed later to DL that this was a phony phone call he just said that he thought that all white guys in NY talked this way. Howard liked the call so much he played it 3 times today.

Howard reads press release about his animated production

Howard was proud to announce that his production Doomsday was bought by the UPN network. It's an animated series about a family traveling the country in a post apocalyptic world seeking traditional family values. Howard plays the dog Orenthal which will be featured from time to time. Howard said that there will also be a 50 foot hillbilly in the show that is treated like a god. He said that he might consider putting in an angry 50 foot Jackie and call him Jokezilla.

High Pitched Eric calls in begging for airtime

On yesterday's show, Gary told Howard about how desperate High Pitched Eric was getting for airtime. He said that he would do anything, even eat a Hershey's Kiss out of Gary's butt. Gary declined the offer, so Howard offered that Benjy do it. Benjy, who once kissed Eric on the lips, also declined. He said that Howard promised him girls the time he kissed Eric, but never got any. Eric said to Benjy that you could pick up girls on AOL. Howard asked Eric if he had any success with AOL. Eric said that he's wrapped with several girls, but they all dumped him when they heard his voice. Eric said that he and Benjy should go down to the Javitz to pick up girls. Howard said that he might want to video tape that and see if either of the two have any luck.

Where Are They Now?: Prince Lazarus

Howard began a new feature today called "Where Are They Now?" Weeks ago he had interviewed Prince Lazarus, who has created his own country and was looking for investors. The country that he created is underwater, and he's seeking investors who will build a foundation on top of the water covered country. Lazarus said that when the SEC found out about the country they put him under investigation to make sure he wasn't violating any United States security laws. So far there has been no progress in his developing the country.

Dick Clark calls in

The world's oldest teenager Dick Clark called in to promote a web site from Philips. Howard asked Dick if he ate the Baby fetuses to stay young. Howard also asked Dick where all of his money would go once a he passed on. Millionaire Clark said that he would give some of the money to his children but would give most of it away to charity.

Stripper Sisters come in to show their "love" for one another

Two stripper sisters from Pennsylvania came in to show off their "love" for one another. Kim and Julie came in because one of them wanted to get a free boob job. Both have been getting it on since their teens when they once shared a bed. Howard wondered what kind of family did they come from. They told Howard that their father was in prison for being a professional car thief. To show that their incestuous relationship was no fraud, they both went topless and began making out with each other. Then one pulled out a paddle and began spanking the other. Dr. Calabro called in later in the show and agreed to give one of the girls a free boob job.

Joan Rivers comes in Old time show friend Joan Rivers came in once again to plug many projects. She is now selling some sort of face cream that according to her has done wonders for her friend and manager Dorothy. She also plugged her QVC special and her Emmy Fashion Review this weekend on E! Howard asked her if she had any new plastic surgery done. She said that the doctor said it wasn't necessary. As for the botox she took months ago to get rid of the wrinkles, she said that she is now able to finally close her eyes, which she wasn't able to do for months. Howard asked her also about the recently deceased Allen Funt. She worked for Funt years ago, and didn't have many nice things to say about him in her book. With his passing, she still didn't have any nice things to say. When Howard learned that Melissa recently had a miscarriage, he said that she should sell it on QVC. Joan, as always, took the dark humor in stride.
